Board Discusses Roads And Taxes

Ask for Particulars of Rumored Highway; Higher Multiple a Subject

Roads and taxes took up much of the time of the Saline County Board of Supervisors which met Thursday at the court house.

With considerable rumor in these parts about a proposed state highway under consideration from U. S. 45 near Gossett along the Saline Hamilton county line to Route 34 near Thompsonville, the county board sought to find out more about it.

The board drafted a resolution asking R. D. Brown, county superintendent of highways, to find out any particulars he could from the State Department of Public Works and Buildings.

Mr. Brown presented a resolution to the board for approval which affirmed a Tate township gravel contract, which called for it to be provided by Vaughn and Stout of Eldorado for $1.50 a ton. Sentiment sympathetic.

There was discussion of a letter sent to the board by the Eldorado Chamber of Commerce asking the county body to protest the present tax multiplier fixed by the State Department of Revenue, the multiplier being much higher than the one for previous years.

There was a sympathetic sentiment expressed by board members and the letter was placed on file to be taken up under proper heading.

During the talk about taxes and multipliers County Judge Trafton Dennis and some of the board members pointed out that to get the money required by the various taxing bodies, including schools, if the multiplier were lower, rates would have to be higher.

Dennis said that the multiplier was not fair in cases where there was inequality in the county assessments because the multiplier multiplied the inequality in the assessment.

Woolard Explains

Biggest thing that could be done to lower taxes, he indicated, is to get the levies lowered wherever possible because in most cases the limit is levied, sometimes automatically.

Judge Dennis was also there to discuss the number of days a bailiff would be required in his court. This was brought about by the number of days turned in by the appointed bailiff, James B. "Doc" Woolard, which some board members felt were in excess of the number needed. Woolard had earlier pointed to a law which said that in a court of record, such as the circuit and county court, a

Administration Adds Possible Tax Cuts to Anti-Recession Weapons

Anderson Shows Optimism Over Economic Outlook

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration, adopting a more flexible economic policy, apparently has added tax cuts to its arsenal of possible anti-recession weapons.

Should the economy continue to slide through next spring the President might ask Congress to cut taxes even though the government would be faced with prospects of heavy red-ink spending.

Congressional tax writers — reading between the lines—drew those conclusions from testimony Thursday by Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson before the House Ways & Means Committee.

Anderson exuded optimism over the economic outlook. He repeatedly assured the committee of his confidence the administration will prove right in its forecast of an economic upturn. He said it wouldn't be "prudent" to cut taxes now with a precarious budget surplus in prospect.

However under questioning he said he could "conceive" of economic condition—under which the administration would modify its stand against general tax relief. He added it was his "present judgment" the economy will rebound without need of the stimulus of a tax cut.

Treasury sources emphasized Anderson's statement about a possible tax cut contained "a number of qualifications." They said current planning is based on the assumption there will be no drastic worsening of the economic outlook and there is "no concrete planning for a tax cut."

Nevertheless several key committee members termed Anderson's views a "refreshing change" from the adamant stand of his Treasury predecessor George M. Humphrey. They said Humphrey seemed to feel the budget should be balanced at all costs.

Swears Didn't Authorize Muddy Petition

Hearing on Village's Existence Continued Until January 31

Argument of a motion to dismiss a petition challenging the existence of the Village of Muddy was continued until Jan. 31 by Circuit Judge C. Ross Reynolds today.

The hearing was continued at the request of Atty. James W. Sanders of Marion, counsel for those challenging the existence of the incorporated village on the contention the boundaries are not contiguous.

Sanders made the request following the filing of the motion to dismiss by Atty. Frank Hanagan of Benton, counsel for the village trustees and the village itself.

The motion by Hanagan asked for dismissal of the petition filed early this week which sought court permission to file mandamus proceedings against the trustees and the village.

Hanagan's motion to dismiss contended that Sanders' petition, in which Christine Ratley, a resident of Muddy, was listed as the petitioner in the matter, was not signed or authorized by Mrs. Ratley.

Accompanying the motion to dismiss was an affidavit supporting the motion.

The affidavit signed by Mrs. Ratley declared:

(a) She did not sign the petition or authorize it to be signed.

(b) She did not retain James W. Sanders of Marion to represent her or to file any proceedings in her name contesting the incorporation of the village of Muddy.

(c) She was one of the signers of the original petition seeking the incorporation of Muddy into a village.

Don Williams Selected as Member SIU Community Development Board

Accepts Invitation From Poston to Advisory Group

Don Williams, Harrisburg insurance man and former city finance commissioner, today said he had accepted an invitation from Richard W. Poston, director of the Department of Community Development of Southern Illinois University, to become a member of the department's advisory board.

"Because of the respect I have for your personal qualities of leadership, your position in your community, and because of your demonstrated belief in the long-range values to which we are dedicated, I would like to invite you to become a member of the Advisory Board," Mr. Poston's letter to Mr. Williams stated.

Mr. Poston said the board will consist of leading southern Illinois citizens from various communities where the department is working, "people who understand and appreciate the meaning of community development, and who will be willing to help us render a continuous better service to all the people of southern Illinois."

He said the advisory board, which will hold its first meeting Jan. 31, is a group to which the SIU department can turn for guidance, consultation, and support in the solution of the many difficult problems that still face us.

"Today we are embarking upon new programs that four years ago (when the department was formed) would have been impossible," Mr. Poston wrote. "Now we are in a position to make new progress that a short time ago was beyond our grasp. And so we look to the future with full confidence in what we know can be achieved by simply keeping on with the same determination that has brought us to the point where we now stand."

Board meetings will be on a quarterly basis.

Mr. Williams is the Harrisburg representative on the executive board of the Saline Valley Development association.

Two Carbondale Men Indicted By Federal Jury

SPRINGFIELD — Clifford P. Rowe, 22, and Francis W. Adams, 36, both of Carbondale, were indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday on charges of possession of counterfeit money.

Federal Judge Charles G. Bringle reset bond at $10,000 for each man. An arraignment date has not been set. The men are being held in the federal section of the city prison here.

Rowe and Adams were arrested Sunday by state police on the U. S. 66 bypass near Springfield after their automobile was stopped because it had no license plate.

A search of the vehicle turned up $2,340 in counterfeit bills, plus about $600 in valid currency.

Secret Service agents found an additional $8,000 in counterfeit money at the Bank of Marion, at Marion, where Rowe and Adams told of placing it in a safety deposit box.

Authorities said Adams, who was a printer, had admitted making the money in his printshop.

The body is at the Bean and Tanner funeral home where it will lie in state until the funeral hour.

Companions Say Believe Shot Accidentally

Dead Youth Home During Layoff from Job in Chicago

Dale Keith, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Keith of Stonefort Route 2, died almost instantly late Thursday afternoon of a gunshot wound suffered while rabbit hunting in the Battleford bottoms six miles south of Harrisburg.

Hunting with him were his brother, "Bud," 22, and Frank Ewell, 16.

Deputy Sheriff Jeff Stricklin, who with Deputy Sheriff Charles Donelson and Coroner James Thornton went to the scene to investigate the death, said the two companions stated they believed the boy shot himself accidentally.

Young Ewell told officers he was about 30 feet away when he heard the shot and that Bud Keith was at a farther point. At first they thought that he had shot at a rabbit, they told officers, but said that when they looked in Dale's direction they saw him lying beside a wagon path that went into the bottom land.

He died almost immediately after his companions reached him. The shot had entered near the neck, it was stated.

The two who were with him said young Keith had been walking along with the shotgun stock in his boot with the barrel sticking up and they had warned him about how dangerous this was, officers said.

A farm wagon hooked to a tractor removed the body from the bottoms to the road, a distance of about three-fourths of a mile, where it was taken by the Gibbons funeral home and brought to Harrisburg.

Young Keith, who was unmarried, had worked at Chicago for about two years and was home for a while during a layoff, it was learned.

He leaves his parents and the following sisters and brothers: William Gene Keith, Mrs. Ruth Ferrell, Lucille, Norma Lee, Nadine and John Wayne Keith.

His body was taken from the Gibbons funeral home this afternoon at 4 p. m. to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Headrick, Carrier Mills, to remain until the funeral, which will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at Walnut Grove church. Rev. Roy Jennings will conduct the service, and burial will be at Walnut Grove cemetery.

SPRINGFIELD — Former State Treasurer Warren E. Wright filed for the Republican nomination for that office again today, with a blast at alleged handpicking of candidates by "so-called political organizations or machines."

Meanwhile, State Treasurer Elmer J. Hoffman, Wheaton, officially became a candidate for Congress as a Republican from the 14th District to succeed the late Rep. Russell W. Kenney.

Wright will oppose State Rep. Louis E. Beckman, Kankakee, in the April 8 primary for state treasurer. Beckman has the backing of Gov. Stratton.

Evansville Juvenile Court Orders 2 Carmi Girls to Get Out, Stay Out

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Two sisters who confessed to obtaining merchandise under false pretenses were ordered to get out of Evansville and stay out, when taken into Juvenile Court Thursday.

The sisters, Mrs. Ladonna Hatfield, 17, and Bonnie Rountree, 16, both of Carmi, Ill., admitted they opened charge accounts in downtown stores under their grandfather's and uncle's names, and purchased nearly $900 worth of merchandise on the bogus charge accounts.

They denied charges that they also cashed bad checks at local stores.

The girls' mother, Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Rountree Wilford, of Carmi, is in county jail awaiting a Jan. 22 trial on a fraudulent check charge. She is accused of cashing a $25 rubber check at Schultz's women's apparel shop, 300 Main street.

Juvenile Judge French Clements

found the girls guilty of delinquency, and ordered them to pick up their four younger brothers and sisters, who were boarding in Evansville, and go back to Carmi.

"I'll hold sentence for a week to give you a week to get out of here," he said.

"And don't come back," he added.

The teen-agers had been in the city and county jails since Dec. 23. Mrs. Hatfield at first told police she was 20 years old and was booked on a preliminary charge and detained at the City Jail. She then admitted she was only 17 and was transferred to the County Jail until her Juvenile Court hearing. Mrs. Hatfield said she had an 18-month-old child and had been separated from her husband for six months.

Both girls said they came to Evansville periodically for football games and were about ready to go back home anyway. Their total cash on hand was 96 cents, but probation officers said the county would stand the additional expense of their bus fare back to Carmi.

Judge Clements said none of the merchandise purchased was recovered, but that the girls' grandfather in Carmi had agreed to repay local merchants about $600.

Salk Vaccine Problem

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

All the evidence mustered to date indicates that the Salk polio vaccine is a smashing success. It has sharply reduced polio rates in the United States. How baffling to learn, then, that millions of Americans are not taking advantage of the vaccine's protection.

Because of what the Health News Institute describes as an apathetic public attitude, manufacturers of the vaccine may have to destroy hundreds of thousands of doses which have become outdated. The makers gear their output to meet demand on a year-round basis.

Most astonishing is the news from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis that there are still more than 16 million youngsters under 20 who have not had any Salk shots. In the age brackets under 40, the total without vaccination is about 45 million people.

According to Chet Shaw, the Institute's executive vice president, the age group under 20 accounts for about three-fourths of all polio cases in the nation.

If any large proportion of these are to be protected at the height of the 1958 polio season next August and September, they need to begin taking the series of three shots right now. Eight months' time is required for the full sequence to run.

This puzzling situation, with vast quantities of vaccine growing stale while many millions still need it but won't act to get it, makes a mockery out of the frenzy over polio shown by so many before the vaccine was discovered.

One cannot help recalling the frantic mothers who stormed the doors of city authorities, seeking any kind of aid at all when earlier polio epidemics struck. One thinks, too, of the millions earmarked for polio research, sometimes at the expense of research into other diseases and in basic science generally.

When Dr. Jonas Salk developed his vaccine, he answered those frantic cries and justified the spending of much money. No one with good sense would want his great achievement to be wasted, even in part.

But that waste can evidently be averted only if millions of Americans, particularly those under 20, start lining up again to get their polio shots, as they should have been doing all along.

It has been estimated that water consumption in the United States has increased 1,300 per cent in the last 50 years.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Republicans Who Exposed Democratic Hams Refuse To Probe Republican Scandals; Influence Inside The FCC Points To White House; Commissioner Mack Admits Borrowing Money From Miami Lawyer.

WASHINGTON. — After a bitter, all-day backstage battle, the Moulder committee finally decided to side-step an inquiry into corruption inside the Federal Communication Commission, the agency which decides who will get valuable radio-TV licenses. A quarter-of-a-million dollars had been appropriated by Congress to pay for the investigation, and almost every penny has now been spent in advance preparation.

But the committee turned around and voted not to bring out the dynamite-laden facts its probes had unearthed, even though the $250,000 may be wasted. The facts were too hot to handle.

The committee vote was 6 to 2. The two who voted to let the public know what was happening were: John Moss of California and Morgan Moulder of Missouri, both Democrats.

The men who fought hardest to keep the public in the dark were John Heseltin of Massachusetts and Joe O'Hara of Minnesota, both members of the GOP, a claque which emitted prolonged cheers when this writer was exposing hams, deep freezes, and milk coats under the Democrats.

Having exposed scandal under the Democrats, however, this column herewith publishes some of the scandal which the Republicans now want to suppress. One scandal involves the grant of television channel 10 in Miami.

THE BROTHER-IN-LAW

After 10 years of debate, from 1947 to 1957, channel 10 went to National Airlines—the first time in history that an airline has been granted a TV station. Oral arguments were heard on July 13, 1954, and an FCC examiner, Herbert Swarman, a competent civil servant of excellent reputation wrote a 50-page opinion recommending that channel 10 go to Frank Katzentine, prominent Miami civic leader. But in February, 1957, the commissioner reversed his examiner, awarded the channel to an airline which has been close to President Eisenhower's brother-in-law, Col. Gordon Moore.

George "Ted" Baker, president of National Airlines, admitted when questioned that Colonel Moore had visited him frequently in Miami. The time of the visits was during, and shortly after, the preliminary recommendation against National Airlines. One reason GOP congressmen bucked against any FCC probe was because of White House calls to FCC members attempting to dictate their decision. Also important is the strange role played by FCC Commissioner Richard Mack in the channel 10 case.

Mack, an alleged Democrat who voted for Eisenhower, was appointed to the FCC by Eisenhower. The FCC was faced with the unfavorable recommendation of examiner Swarman which the White House wanted to reverse.

There are reports that before he was appointed Mack promised Thurman Whiteside, a Miami attorney close to National Airlines, that he would vote for National Airlines. When questioned Whiteside flatly refused to talk so, to get the facts, my assistant Jack Anderson called commissioner Mack.

COMMISSIONER MACK'S STORY

Mack admitted that Whiteside was his close friend and that Mack's personal assistant in the FCC, Earl "Buzz" Barber, had come from Whiteside's law firm. Informed of the reports that he had committed his vote in advance to National Airlines, Mack replied:

"I have never committed my vote to anybody."

Anderson pointed out that a series of long-distance phone calls had been made between Mack's FCC office and Whiteside's law office just before the channel 10 decision.

"These calls had nothing to do with the FCC," Mack replied. "Whiteside is my lawyer. I was discussing a personal matter." Anderson then asked why the calls suddenly ceased right after the FCC decision on channel 10. "It was purely a coincidence," Mack replied. "Those calls were personal business."

He did not explain why they had been charged to the FCC. Anderson then asked about reported payments to Mack from a Grant Foster trust fund, which was kept in Whiteside's custody.

"I have borrowed money from Whiteside," Mack blurted. "This fellow I have known since he was in grammar school."

"How much have you borrowed?"

"Only small amounts," Mack said. He refused to define what he meant by "small amounts."

I asked whether he had borrowed money during the controversy over channel 10. He replied:

"I don't remember. Then he added, 'I really don't remember.'"

"Have you paid back all the borrowed money?"

"I still owe him some money." Again Anderson asked how much, and again Mack said "a small amount."

"Can it be measured in hundreds?"

"Oh, I owe him a couple hundred dollars," Mack said.

MACK'S VEILED THREAT

The commissioner claimed his vote on channel 10 was not the deciding vote and did not affect the final decision anyway.

Anderson then asked why he had voted at all, inasmuch as he had friends close to all the applicants and since his vote was bound to make the losers sore. "Why didn't you simply abstain?" Anderson asked.

He explained that as the junior commissioner at the time he cast the first vote.

"I had no idea those other fellows were going to vote," he said. "I was the first man to vote."

This seemed to contradict his earlier argument that his vote didn't count anyway.

Mack made one interesting statement which in its context seemed a threat that he would embarrass certain congressmen if they embarrassed him.

"I know some things you don't know," he began.

"I'm sure you know many things I don't know."

"If they are going to play that nasty," Mack continued, "they won't want me to talk."

"What do you mean by that?"

"I'll just let it hang," he replied ominously.

Fruit handling and fishing are the major industries of Port Clinton, Ohio.

The Delray 4-Door Sedan. Chevy's the only car in its field with Body by Fisher and Safety Plate Glass all around.

It's one of Chevrolet's dollar-stretching Delrays!

The handsome Delrays are the lowest priced of all the low-priced Chevrolets. And they're full-size Chevrolets—wider, lower and nine lively inches longer. In size, in style, in fine details and construction, no other car priced so low gives you so much!

When you're thinking about buying a car because of its extra-low price, there are two things it pays to watch for. First, be sure you get full measure when it comes to size. Don't settle for a cut-down bargain model. Second, be sure you get all the equipment and conveniences that you'd normally expect to be standard. Look for such everyday things as an instrument panel switch for the dome light, a booster for vacuum windshield wipers and crank-operated vent windows. Chevrolet's Delray models are the lowest priced in the line. But they're full-size Chevrolets—wonderfully lower, and wider, with the same increased length as other models. They're all Chevrolet, with bold new sculptured styling and beautiful Body by Fisher. And they're equipped to do you proud. Nothing else near the price has what's in this package. See it soon at your Chevrolet dealer's!

30-Year-Old Kentuckian Enters SIU As Freshman After Term as Sheriff

CARBONDALE, Ill. — A soft-spoken Kentuckian who recently completed a term as the youngest sheriff in his state has enrolled as a freshman at Southern Illinois University.

Thirty-year-old Ernest Crice, a Wickliffe, Ky., resident who "grew up around a courthouse," hopes to further his political ambitions by obtaining a college degree.

At present, he has his sights set on the office of county judge, the goal he sought — and lost by 120 votes — in an election last May.

Crice feels that by broadening his educational background he will be better qualified to hold public office. His major field will be community journalism, mainly because of the close connection between newspapers and politics.

Followed Father's Footsteps

Crice spent much of his boyhood in and out of the Ballard County Courthouse at Wickliffe because for 18 years his father was county jailer, an elective office in Kentucky. At the age of 21, just a few years after he graduated from Wickliffe high school, Crice followed in his father's footsteps by being elected county jailer.

"I was the youngest official in the state," he recalled. "Four years later, on the basis of my experience, I ran for sheriff."

Crice's 1953 campaign for sheriff was complicated by the Korean War. A few weeks before the all-important primary election he was drafted. From nearby Fort Campbell, where he took basic training, Crice conducted a spirited campaign by mail against five opponents.

"On election day I finished basic training, raced home, and got to the polls only 30 minutes before they closed," Crice said. The next day the 25-year-old candidate learned he had won the election by 320 votes over his nearest opponent.

Granted Leave

Crice had been ordered to Korea, so he appointed two deputies. Upon arriving overseas a month later, he learned that Ballard county was minus a sheriff legally as well as physically since he had not been sworn in.

The Army granted Crice a 30-day leave in November so he could take an oath of office — halfway around the world. Then he returned to Korea, where he finished 16 months of Army duty as an instructor in information and education.

Crice swapped his corporal stripes for his sheriff's badge in February, 1955, to serve the last two years of his term at home. The young lawman's most notable feat was when he helped apprehend the robbers of the Mounds, Ill., bank in the summer of 1956. The fugitives were caught in Ballard County after eluding Illinois authorities by boating across the Ohio River.

Needs Part-Time Job

"I also investigated a couple of routine murders," Crice added. "The murders were routine," he said, "because the killers confessed voluntarily, leaving nothing to be solved."

Crice arrested three moonshiners shortly before his term of office expired Jan. 6. Their supply of 50 gallons of illegal whisky was destroyed but the still which produced it was never located.

Although the Korean GI Bill is paying Crice's tuition at Southern, he will need a part-time job to help support his wife and son, whom he plans to bring to Carbondale when he finds accommodations.

"So far I haven't met anyone who needs the services of an ex-sheriff," he grinned. "I may have to hire out as a private detective."

Oysters Note

NEWCASTLE, Me.—(UP)—The Indians who inhabited Maine long before the white man came must have had a strong hankering for oysters. Experts say that ancient heaps of oyster shells lining the banks of the Damariscotta river contained an estimated five million cubic feet of shells at one time before erosion and tourists got busy.

BEAUTIFY THE CITY, MAYOR, COUNCIL, CIVIC GROUPS URGE

Creal Springs Mayor W. H. Schaffer, the city council, Lions, VFW, Ladies' Auxiliary and other organizations, as well as many of the town's leading individuals propose a plan on a cooperative basis for beautifying the city.

They say that if each individual will do his part in beautifying the streets, lawns, gardens etc., the task will be accomplished and health, beauty and enjoyment of their city will play a ri-fold mission.

A leading authority on city beautification says that litter bugs mar the beauty of any town by scattering paper and other items thoughtlessly.

With all civic organizations and individuals working with a good cooperative spirit, Creal Springs can be just as beautiful as any other town in the state in this respect.

"CULTURE: DEVELOPMENT through education and training." Just a few decades ago, the word culture evoked in the popular mind only an image of Mrs. Upstage, peering disdainfully through her lorgnette. Today, more and more Americans are deciding that culture is not a mere glacé frosting on the otherwise plain cake of life, but something that enriches all experience. Across our land, adults long out of school are again crowding into classrooms, to absorb more of this magic that gives deeper, fuller meaning to living.

Neglected, Dependent Children Receive Good Care at State-Operated Center

By SAM HANCOCK
United Press Staff Correspondent
BUSH, Ill. (UP) — Some youngsters are re-learning things they once knew at a state-operated center for neglected and dependent children here. Others are learning things they never knew before.

The Southern Illinois Children's Service Center is now more than 4 years old. It's the only one of its kind in the state.

Most of the children have emotional problems spawned in broken homes, said L. D. Norman, Carbondale, Region 6 supervisor of the Department of Public Welfare and superintendent of the center.

"One boy is a brilliant student, but picks a fight if left alone for 15 minutes on the playground," Norman said.

All of the children gained weight at the center, Homer Farmer, resident supervisor, said. One boy confessed he had lived mainly on bologna sandwiches before coming to the center.

A few of the more than 200 children who have found temporary homes at the center had to be taught how to use a knife, fork and spoon.

"One girl was admitted after she went directly to the court and pleaded her case. Her mother had died and her father was a drunkard," Norman said. "She figured there must be a better way of life."

The center accepts children 6 through 16 years of age. They are referred by county courts of public and private welfare agencies. Their average stay is four months before they are placed in foster homes or reunited with their families.

Family splits account for most of the referrals, but sickness, abandonment and cruelty are among the other causes.

The children live in a handsome, two-story brick building the state bought for $56,000 from the Missouri-Pacific Railroad. It is located on a rise just off Ill. 149 in this once-bustling little railroad community.

Elementary school children attend classes the year round at the center. Those of high school age attend Hurst-Bush High School nearby.

Most of the children come from the 21 southern Illinois counties in Region 6, but some have been admitted from Peoria, Champaign, Springfield and Jacksonville.

The center can conveniently care for 22 children — 8 girls on the first floor and 14 boys on the second floor — at one time.

Norman says there are no plans for adding rooms to the center, but the Welfare Department has approved a gymnasium. However, it is doubtful that it will be built this biennium, he said.

Other state institutions help out in providing services for the center.

And civic, service and fraternal organizations and citizens stand by to help when they can. More than 33 of them contributed gifts to the children at Christmas.

See Little Difficulty for Grads with Good Grades to Enter College Next Fall

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (UP) — High school graduates with good records will have little difficulty getting into college this fall.

While some big-name institutions are swamped with applicants, there are hundreds of respected schools in every section of the country where the welcome mat is out.

These facts—which may surprise worried high school seniors and their parents—emerged from a nationwide United Press survey.

Although college enrollment climbed this year to an all-time high of 3,048,000, the survey showed there are still thousands of empty beds in college dormitories across the land. Many schools are actually suffering a shortage of students, and are scrambling hard for qualified candidates for the next freshman class.

Factors Outlined
Educators agreed that three factors have helped to create an erroneous public impression that all colleges are overcrowded:

1. People have been reading about the "tidal wave" of students that will hit U. S. colleges a few years from now, and have gotten mistaken idea that it's already here. This "tidal wave" is not a figment of imagination; college enrollment can be expected to double within the next decade.

But the pressure on higher education facilities won't become critical until the early 1960's, when college enrollments begin to reflect the sharp jump in the U. S. birth rate which occurred after World War II.

2. Anxious high school seniors, who share the popular belief that it's already very hard to get into college, have been driving registrars crazy by making applications to as many as 15 or 20 institutions. This growing practice of "multiple application" has misled many schools into thinking that they have far more candidates than they can accommodate.

The student who has been "accepted" by several schools obviously can attend only one of them; at the others, he becomes a "no show" who throws enrollment expectations out of kilter and sometimes leaves a last-minute vacancy in the freshman class. This problem has become so acute that many schools are beginning to get tough with requiring substantial deposits with applications, or fixing early deadlines for a showdown on matriculation.

3. Pride keeps many schools from admitting publicly that they have room for more students. There is a widespread feeling that the "prestige of the institution" requires the dean to boast about how many applications are pouring in, even when he is secretly beating the bushes for freshmen.

Up She Goes

CHICAGO — (UP) — Chicago's newest skyscraper will be a 23-story bank and office building on the southwest corner of Monroe and Clark Streets in the Loop. The structure, which will have an exterior of glass and metal, will house the Harris Trust and Savings Bank. Completion is scheduled for January, 1960.

Coal Production Up In December

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — Illinois mines produced a total of 4,272,532 tons of coal during December, an increase of 48,798 tons over November and almost 71,000 tons over December, 1956, Mines and Minerals Director Ben H. Schull reported today.

Schull also reported there were no fatal accidents in the state's mines for either November or December. There were a total of 21 mine fatalities during 1957, however.

February and July were the only fatality free months of the year in addition to November and December, Schull said.

There were a total of 74 non-fatal mining accidents reported in December, and 825 for the entire year, he said.

The December output was reported from 143 mines employing 11,385 men in 32 counties. Williamson County, with 534,809 tons, led the production.

Select Polio Queen Candidates At High School

Candidates for the annual Saline County Polio Queen were chosen from the four classes at the Carrier Mills high school Wednesday, Jan. 15.

Each class met in home rooms and elected the following girls: senior, Dirla Dobrey; junior, Peggy Berns; sophomore, Helen Dorris, and freshman, Kay Flynn.

The class collecting the highest percentage of its quota, fixed according to the number of students in the class, will have its candidate representing Carrier Mills high school. The school with the highest percentage according to the enrollment of their school will have its representative named queen and the other school candidates will serve as attendants.

This affair will take place at the Saline County Tournament to be held at the Davenport Gymnasium at Harrisburg, on January 24-25.

Juniors To Sell Magazines

The Junior class will sell magazines again this year to help raise money for school activities, and members, along with their class sponsor, Mrs. Jean Crowder, urge all to wait and renew or buy new subscriptions from their class.

They will begin selling them during the first of February.

More people on Canada's Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia, speak Gaelic than anywhere else in the world.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Quinn Duncan of Carrier Mills are the new parents of a son born Jan. 12 at the Harrisburg hospital. The boy weighed 7 lbs., 15 ounces at birth and was named Donnie Quinn. Mrs. Duncan is the former Donna Williams.

What Car Has The Best Brakes?

Read this

"After testing a 1958 CENTURY, one of four Buick Series (all but the SPECIAL) equipped with new deeply-finned aluminum front brake drums, it is our agreeable duty to report that these are the best brakes on a Detroit sedan by far that we have tested, and that they are, conservatively, a 100 per cent improvement over conventional Detroit brakes."

Direct quotation from the new issue of SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED 1958 AWARD "THE SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED ACHIEVEMENT AND SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTION IN THE AUTOMOTIVE FIELD PRESENTED TO THE BUICK MOTOR DIVISION, GENERAL MOTORS CORPORATION, FOR MAJOR ADVANCES IN BRAKES."

NOW—more than ever—
When better automobiles are built
Buick will build them

22 emergency stops from 60 mph—
and Buick's brakes still effective!

As a result of this grueling brake test, SCI stated: "We find it the rule for Detroit sedans to brake quite efficiently for the first few stops, but then they deteriorate rapidly." But here's what happened in the Buick Century: 22 "crash stops" were made from 60 MPH, and afterwards, the brakes were still fully effective. Says SCI: "This was by far the most severe test we ever have submitted a sedan's brakes to, but after it was over the Buick's brakes functioned perfectly... Buick has done it... has set a new standard of brake quality..."

"Crash Stop"—fastest full stop possible for a car traveling at a given speed.

Ridgway, Galatia Play Tonight
For Tournament Championship

Rosiclare and
Cave-in-Rock Lose
In Semifinal Play

Ridgway and Galatia meet at 8:30 p. m. today for the championship of the Greater Egyptian conference tournament.

They won their way into the title tilt by defeating Rosiclare, 41-31, and Cave-in-Rock, 84-70, in the semifinals Thursday. Thus the tournament has followed form to date. When regular scheduled play was suspended for the meet Ridgway topped the standings, Galatia and Rosiclare shared second place and Cave-in-Rock was in the fourth spot.

The big Ridgway gymnasium was well filled for Thursday's semifinals games and the crowd more than got its money's worth.

In the opener Rosiclare came up with a rugged defense, especially against Ridgway's big center—Roger Suttner—and held him to a mere 6 points, a low for his two-year varsity career.

New statistics have been released on Suttner and he is now listed at 6-11½. When the season began Coach Bob Dallas released Suttner's height at 6-10½ and recently stated he knew Suttner was some taller, but he hadn't been measured since last October.

Coach Dallas and Ridgway Principal James Austin put a tape on Suttner Wednesday and the new statistics now read—Suttner 6-11½.

Following the tight defensive play, which coupled with cold shooting, kept the score down in the first game, the nightcap was a wild, high-scoring affair. Point production hit a high note in the third quarter when a total of 56 points were scored, including 29 by the Rockers and 27 by Galatia. Ridgway got away to a fast start, holding a lead of 7-2 in the early part of the first quarter, but Rosiclare pulled up to trail only 11-7 when the frame ended.

The score was tied at 12-12 in the second quarter, then Ridgway went to 16-12, but at the intermission the score was 16-14. Rosiclare used a good press effectively during this period.

The third quarter was all Ridgway, who held a 14-5 scoring advantage. Seay was the only Rosiclare player to enter the scoring column during the entire period and Ridgway ran up a 30-19 margin, which was sufficient for victory as the two clubs battled on near even terms in the final period.

A fine defense, plus a weakening illness, coupled to hold Ridgway's big scorer, Suttner, in check. But the other regulars—Clifford, Ambrous, Crawford and Sanders—came through in great fashion. The all round play of Clifford, especially in the rebounding department, was outstanding. He and Crawford tied for scoring honors at 14 each.

Ridgway scored at a 286 clip, hitting 12 of 42 from the field. Rosiclare shot .275, with 14 hits in 51 tries.

Galatia, after trailing 5-1 against Cave-in-Rock in the early part of the game, started a streak that included nine consecutive points and from that point on Galatia was never headed.

At the quarter the Saline county crew was up 18-13.

A big 27-point second quarter, paced by Jones' 11 markers, put Galatia on the long end of a 45-27 score at halftime.

Jones not only was the top scorer, but was terrific on the boards, especially on the offensive, getting most of his baskets by rebounding long misses by his teammates.

Galatia has another 27-point frame, but Cave-in-Rock was also busy in the third quarter, rolling in 29 points and after three quarters of fast and furious action Galatia led 72-56.

Thornton Davis, Galatia center fouled out early in the third quarter. Midway in the second quarter Davis picked up his third foul and was taken from the game, but re-entered the lineup as the second half started. In 15 seconds he had been whistled two more times. Teammate Hill also fouled out in the third and Odle followed them to the bench in the fourth. The Rockers also lost two by fouls in the fourth—Belt and Porter.

Jones of Galatia led the game's scorers with 25 and Shore of Cave was a basket back with 23. Others in double figures were Boyett, Hill, Odle and Thornberry for Galatia and Sheridan, Porter and Switzer of Cave.

Galatia, shooting often and accurately, had a .415 average with 34 hits in 82 attempts. The Rockers shot 52 times and hit 19 for a .365 average.

3 Games Tonight

Radio station WEBQ will carry three basketball games this evening, on both AM and FM.

At 6:50 p. m., with Ken Hamilton at the mike, the consolation game of the Greater Egyptian conference at Ridgway will be on the air.

About 8:15 Elmer Gladson will come on the air from Davenport gym with the Marion-at-Harrisburg game.

Basilio Early
Choice in Bout
With Robinson

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Carmen Basilio jumped to a 9-5 choice today in the early betting for his big fight with Sugar Ray Robinson at the Chicago Stadium, March 25.

Those odds for their 15-round return title match were somewhat surprising because it was by only a split decision that Basilio won the 160-pound crown from Sugar Ray at Yankee Stadium last Sept. 23, after a thrilling nip-and-tuck battle.

Shortly after promoter Jim Norris announced Thursday that the return match had been signed, the opening price favored the champion from Chittanooga, N. Y., at 7-5. But it rose two points to 9-5 today.

Basilio, 30, was as confident as his supporters. Over the phone from Chittanooga, he said today, "I'll beat him again, but I won't predict a knockout. I never felt better or more confident in my life."

Robinson, 37, declared, "I thought I won last time, but I'll make sure of it at Chicago. I wouldn't be fighting him again if I didn't believe I could take him."

Norris said he hoped the gate receipts and theatre-TV receipts for the indoor fight at Chicago would total at least $825,000 and exceed the similar total of about $806,000 for the outdoor September thriller at Yankee Stadium.

Kawal Hails New 2-Point Grid
Rule; Urges Moving Goal Posts

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Hailing the new two-point "extra-point" rule as a boost to football, Southern Illinois University grid coach Al Kawal this week advocated moving the goal post to the goal line as another improvement.

"The new rule," Kawal predicted, "will definitely make the game more thrilling, will eliminate many tie games, and will give football added drama."

"To further heighten excitement and give more punch to the game," Kawal said, "the goal posts should be moved to the goal line to make field goals easier. College teams don't even try very many field goals now, but the number of attempts would go up sharply if the posts were 10 yards closer." (Goal posts are on the goal line in professional ball, but are 10 yards back for high school and college games.)

"Many coaches and fans don't realize," added Kawal, "just how much the new extra point rule will affect football. No longer will a seven-point lead be safe. Although the extra-point kick (which will still only count one) won't be as important as it has been, it also should be easier to get," Kawal predicted. "Last year on an extra point try, eight or nine players would pile up in the center. But this will no longer be true as teams will employ a defense to stop a running or passing play rather than to throw all their force into stopping a place kick."

"The game will hit a new high in 'second-guessing,' as there will be so many more ways in which close games could be won or lost. The team ahead will always have the big choice as it gambles on a two-point try or the easier one-point place kick. What the leading team does," predicted Kawal, "will depend on the confidence it has in its defensive play."

Kawal, a former head grid coach at Temple University and Drake University and a former cage and grid star at Northwestern University, has long been active in rule changes and in coaches' associations' work. (Earlier this month he served on the eight-member ethics committee of the American Football Coaches Association, which had more than 2,000 coaches at its annual meeting at Philadelphia, Pa.)

Two years ago Kawal was instrumental in getting the Interstate Conference to adopt a rule which permits one player to talk with the coach during timeouts, a rule which professional football has had for some time. Last year high schools and junior col-

Wilt Caught in Squeeze in Scoring Battle

By United Press

Wilt Chamberlain, the nation's most famous college basketball player, seems caught in a squeeze between Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson and Seattle's Elgin Baylor that figures to deprive him of the coveted national scoring title.

Chamberlain goes into Saturday night's game with Missouri as the No. 2 scorer with an average of 32.2 points in 11 games. That average is only 0.5 below Robertson's 32.7 average and is 1.6 above Baylor's 30.6 but the hitch is that both other contenders have far easier schedules.

Chamberlain and Kansas will play tough Big Eight opponents for the bulk of their remaining schedule. Included among their foes will be Kansas State, ranked anywhere from second to eighth all season, twice; and Iowa State, which bobs in and out of the top 10 from week to week.

Cincinnati has only three top-ranked teams to face—Bradley, Oklahoma State and Dayton, while Seattle won't meet a top-rated team until it takes on Bradley March 10 in its season finale.

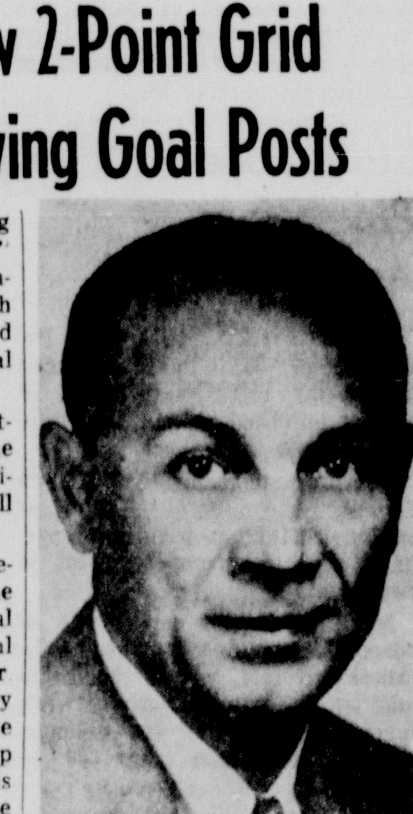

The up-to-date figures on the top scorers show Robertson with 425 points in 13 games, Chamberlain with 354 in 11 and Baylor with 337 in 11.

In Thursday night's major games: Texas upset Texas Christian, 73-69; Dayton knocked off Oklahoma City, 75-60; Providence College whipped St. Anselm's, 80-53; Davidson nipped Furman, 72-70, and Florida defeated Miami (Fla.), 75-70.

Dorrisville Beats
Broughton, 45-23

Dorrisville ran its Midget conference record to 8-1 Thursday by beating Broughton 45-23. The winners led 15-3 at the quarter and were in command at all times.

Dorrisville will close its conference schedule at Muddy Thursday, the game to start at 1:30 p. m. Seeing action for Dorrisville against Broughton were Bob Brown, Ronnie Hutchison, Bob Thompson, Donnie Hutchison, Albert Beal, Randy Reynolds, Gary Hutchison, Tom Mick, Art Gibbons, Gene Turner, Jim Vaughn, Ernie Day, John Fuson and Glen Ford.

Al Kawal

leges adopted the rule on a national scale, but the Interstate Conference continued to be the only major conference using the regulation.

"I believe," Kawal said, "that all colleges eventually will have the rule. I know most of the coaches favor it, and I can't understand why the NCAA rules committee is waiting so long to adopt it."

Nats Halt St.
Louis Rally, Beat
Hawks, 112 to 96

By United Press

The Syracuse Nationals, who have slowly been biting away at Boston's tremendous lead in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn., will get their chance to make it close when they tangle with the Celtics tonight.

Syracuse checked a late St. Louis rally to rip the Hawks, 112-96, Thursday night and move to within four and a half games of the Celtics.

In other games Thursday night, Detroit edged Philadelphia, 113-108 and Cincinnati defeated Minneapolis, 124-108.

In tonight's other games, New York will play Philadelphia in the opener of the twinbill at Boston, while Minneapolis will meet St. Louis and Cincinnati will face Detroit in a doubleheader at Detroit.

Adult Tests at SIU
February 7-8, for High School Diplomats

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Adults seeking high school diplomas may take tests of General Educational Development Feb. 7-8 at Southern Illinois University, according to Dr. Jack W. Graham, testing supervisor.

To qualify for a diploma, the person to be tested must bring a letter from his school principal indicating that a diploma will be granted if he successfully completes the tests.

A day and a half of testing is required, beginning at 8 a. m. Friday, Feb. 7.

GED tests are offered without charge at Southern the first Friday and Saturday of each month.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Last week, we dealt with having your car fully checked for winter driving. Here are a few more tips along the same line.

Check to see that your brakes are properly adjusted. If they are not, your vehicle may be thrown into a skid. While the brakes should be properly adjusted at all times, it is particularly necessary during winter months when roads are covered with rain, snow or ice.

Make sure that your tires are in good condition for travel over snow and ice. It is easy to visualize how smooth tires could easily lead to skidding. Use full tire chains on snow and ice.

Are your headlights in good working condition? They are your eyes at night and at that time your life and the lives of others depend upon them. The longer hours of darkness during this time of the year bring added work to your headlights, so have them checked regularly.

When planning a trip, allow more time than in other seasons for your journey. Drive as much as possible during daylight hours. Pay close attention to road signs which have been posted for your protection. Slow down well in advance of curves and intersections. Make your signals for turns or stops well in advance.

Cardinals Sign 27th Player

By United Press

The St. Louis Cardinals, who haven't won a pennant since 1946 were leading all major league teams today in "the ball point race."

The Redbirds, perennially the leaders in contract signings, lined up their 27th player Thursday when star pitcher Larry Jackson signed for a "substantial increase."

Bing Devine, the Cardinals' new general manager, has only 12 more players to sign while most clubs still are dealing with the bulk of their rosters.

Jackson was the Cardinals' leading pitcher last season, posting a 15-9 won and lost record and winding up with an earned run average of 3.47.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, meanwhile, lined up relief specialist Clem Labine, who appeared in 58 games last season despite a rib injury.

One of the highest paid relief pitchers in baseball, Labine has a lifetime earned run average of 3.47 for 304 games, during which he has won 59 games and lost 55.

The Cincinnati Redlegs raised their number of signed players to 13 by lining up catchers Smoky Burgess and Dutch Dotterer, pitchers Ken Hommel and Ted Wience, and outfielder Pete Whisenant.

Burgess, the most important member of the Cincinnati signees, batted .283 and drove in 39 runs on 58 hits last year.

Elsewhere around the circuit: The Milwaukee Braves signed outfielder Earl Hersh, first baseman Norm Zauchin of the Boston Red Sox, who broke his right wrist in a game last August, was okayed by team physician Dr. Ralph McCarthy, and Early Wynn, obtained from the Cleveland Indians in a recent trade, promised he'll be able to take his regular pitching turn with the White Sox next season.

Girls Win
GEORGETOWN, Tex. — (UP) — Outnumbered co-eds at Southern University during the 1957 Spring semester outdid the men students in all classes, from freshmen on up, by racking up a 84.34 average to 80.14 for the men.

Sarah Churchill Pays $50 Fine For Drunkenness

MALIBU, Calif. (UP) — Actress Sarah Churchill, daughter of Britain's Sir Winston Churchill, Thursday paid a $50 fine for drunkenness after the judge assured her she would receive "equal justice" under American laws based upon ancient English common law.

The chastened red-haired stage and TV star said she "deeply regrets" the trouble she had caused. She was arrested after sheriff's officers went to her beach home Monday on a telephone complaint that she had been burning up the wires with profane and lurid language.

Miss Churchill's demeanor before Justice Court Judge Charles H. Woodmansee showed no trace of the resentment expressed in British newspapers against her treatment by the arresting officers. The papers accused the officers of pushing her around and acting in a generally ungentlemanly fashion. The sheriff's office report at the time she was booked noted that she complained of being bruised by the officers, but Miss Churchill has refused to comment on this angle.

Killer Dies in Gas Chamber

PARCHMAN, Miss. (UP) — Killer William Alvin Wetzel screamed his desire to live today from Mississippi's lethal gas chamber, then died quietly with a Psalm on his lips.

"I wish I could be out there looking in like you!" the 33-year-old convict screamed at 17 witnesses through the chamber's glass partition, and for a moment his face was twisted with a wild look.

He grew calm again, began repeating the 23rd Psalm and slumped over. Prison physician Dr. T. A. Robinson pronounced him dead at 1:23 a.m. e.s.t.

His family claimed the body and it was taken to a funeral home in Indianola, Miss. It was not announced immediately where and when funeral services would be held.

Wetzel died for the revenge killing of a fellow Mississippi prisoner in 1953. His execution followed by just a week the murder conviction of his brother Frank, who broke out of a New York mental institution vowing to free him. Frank Wetzel is accused of killing two North Carolina highway patrolmen before he finally was captured in a California parking lot.

sheriff shall in person or by deputy attend each session.

"I assume you are aware I am a deputy," he stated. "The sheriff hasn't complained about my being here."

He explained that in some of his claims, days turned in for circuit court and county court work had become transposed and that 59 days charged to circuit court really should be charged to county court.

Records produced by Alvin Gates (R Cottage) had shown that during the period in question the three circuit judges had been here 49 days.

After Woolard's explanation, Gates said to him: "I'm sorry to have caused you any trouble."

Could Use Regular Deputies Later Judge Dennis said that he would require a regular bailiff only a few days a year—when he had a jury—that he believed the regular salaried deputies in the sheriff's office could be used at other times.

Sheriff William T. Barrett also said he believed a regular deputy could be used when there were no juries.

The board decided to draft a resolution to be presented at the next meeting.

In another action Board Members Ewell Winkelman, Aubrey Giles, Raymond E. Field and Bert Jones talked about the board's relationship with the Saline Valley Development association.

"Our industria, committee is still making hay and things are looking better," Winkelman stated.

Several reports were read and Dr. H. N. Jarvis of Harrisburg was reappointed Saline county rabies inspector for 1958.

House Group Demands Review Military Waste

84-Years Supply of Linseed Oil for Base in Germany

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House Government Operations Committee today demanded a "complete review" of waste in the U. S. military aid program, including purchase of an 84-years supply of boiled linseed oil for an Army base in Germany.

The committee also wants further inquiry into:

—Turning U. S.-built bases over to the British without being paid for any of the usable buildings and equipment left on the land.

—Building an airbase in Spain alongside a civilian airport which interfered with takeoffs and landings.

—Paying rent on 112 million dollars worth of machine tools this nation had earlier handed over to Britain as a gift.

A committee report issued Thursday asked "how much of the 24 billion dollars appropriated by the Congress for this military aid program has been wasted?"

The question indicated Congress will give a critical eye to President Eisenhower's expected request this year for nearly four billion dollars in additional overseas military aid funds.

The report was written by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Dante B. Fascell which held open hearings in England, France, Italy and Germany.

In Germany, it said, Army procurement headquarters at Heidelberg bought an 84-years supply of boiled linseed oil. The subcommittee said the Army explained it was using up some German Deutsche marks before a deadline on their expenditure expired.

It said the Army had hoped to use the oil and nails elsewhere but must first negotiate to get around an agreement that items bought with Deutsche marks cannot be taken out of Germany.

In the meantime, it noted, the Army was paying for warehousing, inventory and handling.
